The Triple Bottom Line Assessment is required to be published in accordance with Part 4, section 23 (1)(b) of the Freedom of Information Act 2016

19/697 – ANZAC Day public holiday - 2020

Summary of Impacts
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There will be minimal cost to the ACTPS as Monday, 27 April 2020 is already a holiday under the ACTPS industrial agreements. • The private sector may incur additional labour costs from increased rates for working on a public holiday. • Previous modelling for the impact of public holidays, based on studies in other jurisdictions, suggests that where employers choose not to operate on a public holiday, the overall reduction is up to 0.4 per cent of their annual output.

Summary of impacts:

Level of impact	Positive	Negative	Neutral
-----------------	----------	----------	---------

Social
Level of impact	Impact	Summary
Neutral	Gender Equality	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A gender impact analysis has been undertaken and there are no impacts on gender equality.
Neutral	Health (Community and mental health)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Nil impact as Monday, 27 April 2020 would already be a holiday for Health employees, other than casual employees, under the ACT Public Sector Health Professional Enterprise Agreement 2018 – 2021.
Neutral	Access to services	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Should Monday, 27 April 2020 be declared an additional public holiday, this will create less confusion for Canberrans as all services, transport and facilities would be operating on a public holiday basis.
Positive	Access to social inclusion/participation and community activities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ANZAC Day has enormous historic and social significance for the people of Canberra. • All Canberrans should have the opportunity to commemorate the day with a public holiday, not just those who work on the 25 April. • It would have a positive impact on work life balance by allowing all Canberrans to mark ANZAC day with a holiday, not just those who work on the Saturday.
Neutral	Human rights	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Nil impact.

Economic
Level of impact	Impact	Summary
Neutral	ACT Government Budget	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> There will be minimal cost to the ACTPS as Monday, 27 April 2020 is already a public holiday.
Neutral	Productivity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The economic impact on businesses in the Territory has previously been assessed, based on studies in other jurisdictions, to suggest that where employers choose not to operate on a public holiday, the overall reduction is up to 0.4 per cent of their annual input. Previous modelling in relation to public holidays suggests there would be a minimal net impact on the Territory as a whole.
Negative	Employment and labour force	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The private sector may incur additional labour costs accruing from increased rates for working on a public holiday. The Commonwealth Public Service would incur additional labour costs, provided any relevant enterprise agreement did not include a Saturday substitution arrangement for ANZAC Day.
Negative	Small business impact	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The private sector may incur additional labour costs accruing from increased rates for working on a public holiday. Previous modelling suggests that where employers choose not to operate on a public holiday, the overall reduction is up to 0.4 per cent of their annual output.
Negative	Education	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Nil impact for ACT Government schools as Monday, 27 April 2020 is already a public holiday for Education employees, other than casual employees, under the ACT Public Sector Education Directorate (Teaching Staff) Enterprise Agreement 2018 – 2022. Private sector schools would likely be forced to amend their term dates for term 2 of 2020 or incur additional labour costs accruing from increased rates for working on a public holiday.
Neutral	Investment and Economic Growth	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Previous modelling for the impact of public holidays, based on studies in other jurisdictions, suggests that where employers choose not to operate on a public holiday, the overall reduction is up to 0.4 per cent of their annual output.
