Statement – Education and Training

Minister for Education and Training Joy Burch has directed the Education and Training Director-General to undertake an investigation following an incident in an ACT government school.

“Late last week I became aware of an inappropriate withdrawal place being put in one of the classrooms.

“This action was taken by the principal who was dealing with a student exhibiting challenging behaviour.

“Despite all good intentions this type of withdrawal space is wrong and should not have occurred.

“Our students deserve to be treated with dignity and respect. Our families need to know that their children are safe and supported in our school system.

“I ask that the media consider the privacy of the family involved,” Ms Burch concluded.

Colleagues

Today, Thursday 2 April 2015, the Minister for Education and Training and Minister for Disability, Joy Burch and I made a public statement about a serious complaint about an ACT school. The complaint related to the use by a public school of a structure within the school intended as a withdrawal space for a student with behavioural challenges and special needs. The space [REDACTED] and it has been removed.

We have immediately implemented a full independent investigation into the incident.

Public school leaders and teachers, together with families work hard to provide safe, supportive and inclusive learning environments.

Should you require support please speak with your Principal, School Network Leader or Supervisor. The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) is also available should you feel that you would like support.
