

19/118 ACT Government's response to the 2018 ACT Youth Assembly Report

Social

Justice and rights	The ACT Government's response to the 2018 ACT Youth Assembly Report supports the ACT Government's commitment to continuing to value and encourage the participation of young Canberrans aged 12 to 25 about matters of importance to this age group.
---------------------------	--

Economic

ACT Government Budget	The ACT Government's response to the 2018 ACT Youth Assembly Report may have an impact on the ACT Government Budget. However, it is anticipated that most recommendations will be delivered within existing resources.
Productivity	The ACT Government's response to the 2018 ACT Youth Assembly Report aims to remove barriers to improve youth participation in our community through both direct and indirect measures. Direct measures include supporting access to education and employment. Indirect measures include improving access to sustainable housing for young people and enhancing the availability of youth mental health services.
Investment	The ACT Government's response to the 2018 ACT Youth Assembly Report is likely to have a positive economic impact on the whole of the ACT community through the greater economic and social participation of young people.

Environmental

Nil impact.